On Tuesday Mrs. D. Moore Lindsay was hostess at a charming buffet luncheon, the Easter idea being prettily carried out in the decorations. The centerpiece consisted of a large candy nest in yellow, filled with eggs, and sur-rounded by rabbits with yellow ribbons fastened to them, each ribbon being drawn across the table and finished with an egg. Bowls of white daisies and yellow candelabra shades completed the effective decorations. The hostess was assisted in receiving by Mrs.

Conference with its throngs and genial cheer and bustle has dominated the last days of the week, and the city will seem comparatively quiet and deserted after its close. With the passing of Lent the week has realized all that is promised in the way of a social revival, nearly every day having had its pleasant event. The most notable affair was probably the ball given by Battery A. N. G. U., and the list of other events public and private, show a delightful record. The opening of the country club today is a special mark in the social season, and from this time on the pleasant pastimes and socials at the club will make a feature of the social record. One of the delightful events of the week was the ball given by Battery A at Christensen's last Tuesday evening. No event ever given by the local Na-tional Guard has excelled the one of this week. It was well patronized, elaborate and thoroughly enjoyable. Besides being an exceptionally fine military ball, it can also be classed among the prettiest social affairs of the season. No time nor means had been spared to make it a success, and those who had the affair in charge are to be complimented upon the result of their efforts. The hall presented a beautiful appearance, decked in the national colors. Over the arch leading from the the hall, flags and guidons were taste fully grouped; behind the musicians' stand and extending from ceiling to the floor and side walls, red, white and blue bunting was draped in rosette effect, all the ends being gathered at the top and fastened under crossed guns and the battery colors. Over all the chairs and settees red army blankwere draped adding completeness to the decorations. In the northeast corner of the hall was a canteen of peing served during the evening. orchestra had been enlarged to 12 pieces and especially good music was rendered for a program of 20 numbers Among the selections played was a two step composed by Sargeant Ed Kimball especially for Battery A. The biennial meeting in Los Angeles is the chief topic with local club women as it presumably is elsewhere. Nearly all of the clubs have chosen their delegates, and individual clubs are busy discussing their prospective attitude upon the problems which will come up for discussion at the big convention. The "color question" of course leads all others, and all club members are alive to the importance of their vote upon the subject. It is evident that only the most delicate adjustment of the question will
